

As a tax-payer and consumer residing in Indiana I am opposed to the weakening of Indiana's "no call" legislation. Since I became part of the no-call list my "at home" family time has become significantly more relaxed because we're not answering phone calls that we don't want or listening to the phone ringing because we choose not to deal with another annoying solicitation.

I am also encouraging any financial institution I do business with to immediately withdraw their support of this effort, or I will send my business to a company that values my time!
